SCHOOL RESOURCE OFFICER CORNER: A MESSAGE FROM OFFICER KEIPERT (SRO)

NOVEMBER IS NATIONAL RUNAWAY PREVENTION MONTH.

Life is hard and growing up in 2014 is even harder. The stresses of home life, school and peer pressure can be difficult to handle, and with social media it's hard to get away from those stresses. Sometimes teens think their only option is to leave home.

We, as parents and educators, need to work on preventing this mindset. It's all about communication. Adults should talk to each other! If you notice "things just are not right," relay that information to each other. Once you recognize the potential problem, you can get help. Go to the school counselors or try 1-800-RUNAWAY, which is available 24/7. Operators there can give you tips on how to handle the situation.

Visit www.1800runaway.org for more information.

CHANDLER PUBLIC LIBRARY DATABASE- A GREAT RESOURCE

Your child's school report is due, the teacher says you can't use Google, and the school library is closed. What to do? Try the Chandler Public Library databases! These are collections of information, reprinted from books and magazines, available for free with your library card and PIN.

To access all these databases, start at chandlerlibrary.org and hover your mouse over the purple RESEARCH tab. Then click Databases A-Z, and scroll down to find a database relevant to your needs, and go! You'll need your library card and PIN if you're signing in from home. Some of the more useful databases for your High School student are: Global Issues in Context, Opposing Viewpoints in Context, Facts on File, and Biography Reference Center, or you can access most of the databases in a single search by using the Power Search resource. Make sure to look for the citation information that goes with each book or article. It will tell you how to include the resource in a Works Cited page, just like a regular book or magazine.
